

Difference between the value of  $x$  from the Numeric simulation and the one from the second order approximation for different initial  $x_0$

